"Excessive sweating, hard breathing, and feverish moaning." That's how I described my first experience with a man while reading this article. Sex between male and female animals is something that happens all the time in nature. Indeed it has recently been happening more ... With almost no one paying attention because it's happening under the radar. The main difference between animals having sex is that animals have sex with the intent of procreation whereas humans have sex for pleasure. "I'm sure some of you got the impression that I had more than one man in my life..." A few weeks after reading this article, my best friend gave me the book "The Secret Life of Donkeys" by Brian Fagan. It was filled with interesting stories about donkeys. I had never heard about this before and decided to buy it. As I read, I found out that there were more things that animal men do than just live together and not let anyone know about their encounters. They also do things like painting pictures, dancing, playing sports and more. One thing that struck me was how they try to hide their love. They know that if people knew what animal men did together, their reputations and livelihoods would be ruined. "How every Sunday we would meet at the park and talk quietly about our deepest feelings." After finding this book, I told my best friend's husband about it and he gave me his copy of the book "Assume the Position: A Kinky Kitten Guide to Painful Pleasures" by Felicity Fey. This story really seems to support the myth that the large majority of animal men are gay. There is a lot of myth busting though in this story because it shows that there is a place for heterosexuals. That appears to be in the minority though. In this story, a male cat has to visit the vet and he ends up falling into a whole world that he never knew existed. It's hard for him because at that time in his life, he is going through a divorce with his wife and his kid has been spending less time with him. He meets a female cat who helps him realize that there are people who care about him. "If you really love someone you shouldn't be afraid to express it." After reading this book, I started thinking about my own experience with an animal man. It was when I read this article though that I remembered it most clearly. I was walking my dog in the park when I saw an older man walking a deer on a leash. I had never seen anything like this before and had to go up to him to find out more. As I got closer, I could see that the deer was clearly in heat and that's why it was there with the man. He told me that they had just met recently but he knew that there was something special between them. He said that things were complicated because his wife didn't know about them yet, but he also said that they were so right for each other ... I went home after my encounter with the deer-man and found this article in an old magazine.
